

PROFFER OF FACTS

Oma Crawford, hereafter referred to as the defendant, and Ralph Thomas, hereafter referred to as the victim, knew each other for several years through both of their involvement in high school and semi-professional football. By June 2011, this relationship had continued as the defendant played for the D.C. Falcons, a semi-professional football team in Washington, D.C., and the victim worked in the management of the team. At the same time, however, the defendant came to believe the victim was having a sexual relationship with the defendant's wife.

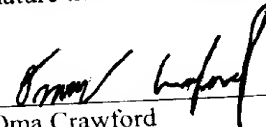

On June 3, 2011, the defendant brought a .380 caliber semi-automatic pistol in a gym bag to the Falcons' practice at McKinley Technology High School located at 151 T Street N.E. In the parking lot of the school, the defendant and the victim discussed the situation involving the defendant's wife. The defendant then ran to his gym bag, which he had left on the edge of the parking lot, and pulled the .380 out of it. The defendant then chased the victim around the parking lot, firing at least four shots at the victim, who was unarmed. The victim was struck by a bullet in the head, and he died as a result of this injury. The defendant's actions were not a result of self-defense.

After shooting the victim, the defendant fled from the scene. During his flight, he removed his shirt and hid it with his gun and gym bag under the back porch of 229 R Street, Northeast. The defendant was eventually stopped and arrested by the police after a short foot chase in the 200 block of S Street, Northeast.
